Instructions for Nominating or Changing Your Beneficiary

In the event of your death, the Judges Retirement Act, Public Act 234 of 1992, as amended, provides for any benefit available to be paid to the beneficiary named on this form. The benefit available will depend on your age and accrued service credit, at the time of your death. Two types of survivor benefits are possible – a monthly survivor benefit or a refund of contributions.

Survivor Pension Benefits Payable

A monthly survivor benefit may be paid to an eligible beneficiary when you die if you are vested with the Judges Retirement System. Vesting requires eight (8) years of credited service.

Who is eligible for a survivor pension?

Whether a monthly survivor pension is payable or not, and to whom, depends in part on if you have a valid beneficiary nomination form on file with the Office of Retirement Services (ORS).

No Beneficiary Form on File

If you are vested but have no form on file when you die, your spouse can receive a lifetime monthly pension benefit, or can request a refund of accumulated contributions instead. If you have no spouse, or your spouse dies after you, and you have unmarried children under the age of 19, a pension benefit will be split between each child until that child is adopted, married, turns 19, or dies, whichever comes first. However pension benefits can continue until age 25 while your child is attending school full-time.

Beneficiary Form on File with ORS

If you are vested or eligible for deferred retirement, you can nominate your spouse as your pension beneficiary to receive a monthly survivor benefit for his/her lifetime.

Other eligible beneficiaries. If you are not married, you can nominate your child, including an adopted child, or your brother, sister or parent for a monthly survivor benefit. This named beneficiary will receive monthly survivor benefits for his/her lifetime.

If you are married and nominate someone other than your spouse as your pension beneficiary for a survivor benefit, your spouse must waive his or her rights to these benefits by signing in the box in Section II. This signature is required each time the form is completed.

Deferred survivor benefits. If you are in deferred retirement status, your survivor's monthly benefits will not start immediately. Deferred members are those who terminate employment before satisfying the age requirements for a retirement benefit, leave contributions on deposit, and have eight (8) or more years of credited service. A deferred member is entitled to receive a deferred vested retirement benefit upon reaching the minimum age requirement—age 60, or age 55 with 18 years of service (of which the last six (6) years are continuous).

Your deferred survivor benefits would begin the first of the month after you would have otherwise become eligible to receive a monthly pension.

Refund Paid if No Eligible Survivor Beneficiary

If no ongoing monthly survivor benefits are payable after your death, the pension beneficiary you name in Section I will receive a refund of your personal contributions plus interest, unless you nominate a different person as your refund beneficiary.

Changing Your Beneficiary

If the pension beneficiary you name in Section I is divorced from you, the election becomes void when you provide ORS with the required divorce papers. You should consider revising your beneficiary nomination form when any change occurs in your relationship with the pension beneficiary.

Other nominations for beneficiary. The Retirement act requires you to name a “person,” so you cannot directly name a trust, estate, organization, or company as a beneficiary. However, you may nominate a person in care of, as the trustee of, or as the administrator of a legal entity. Member Sally Wilson, can name her husband, William, as her pension beneficiary using: “William Wilson, in care of the William and Sally Wilson joint trust” or “William Wilson, trustee, c/o the William Wilson Living Trust.” Or you could name your child, in care of your trust. Do not name yourself as the trustee or administrator of a living trust or living will. This beneficiary nomination is invalid and will be returned.

If you want an organization or company to receive your refund, designate by person's name, the organization's trustee or company's executive, or successor, in care of the organization or company.
